

PRIVACY NOTICE

Visitors to the O&M website agree to the storage of a “cookie” or similar technology on the device accessing the site. The information in this cookie is used only to identify you to our online service or application, to make it easier to use this site.

A cookie constitutes a little data ID card for your computer/device, carrying information about that specific computer/device. It cannot store information about you—the actual computer/device user— unless you specifically provide it. When you visit a website, a cookie can show if your computer/device has been used to visit the site before, helping the Web manager to track how many visitors return to the site. A cookie also can store information about your computer/device, like the type of operating system you use, your Web browser, etc. That information helps website operators fine-tune their sites so they work well with your computer/device and software. Visitors can always set up Web browsers to not allow cookies. Check your browser help files to learn how. However, that may mean some functions on a website may not work properly.
